

TERRI ROYLANCE

Hello!

My professional career began as an elementary teacher at Cottonwood Heights Elementary (now torn down!) and then Canyon View Elementary, both in Canyons School District. I taught all grade levels (except second grade) and worked as the literacy specialist.

While at Canyon View Elementary, I applied to the LPP at BYU, where I received my master's degree.

Once I graduated from BYU, I was appointed to be the principal of Arcadia Elementary, in Granite School District, where I stayed for three years.

I then requested to learn the high school system and was placed as an assistant principal at Taylorsville High School for three years.

During my last year at Taylorsville High School, I was moved to Churchill Junior High School as the principal.

I loved my one year at Churchill before I was appointed to be the principal of Cottonwood High School. I spent my last seven years of employment at Cottonwood!

I retired on July 1, 2022, and have been working at the University of Utah as a supervisor for their student teachers and teaching a class at Westminster University and supervising their student teachers in the classroom.

I look forward to working in Jordan School District! As you can see, I am comfortable working in both elementary and secondary schools.
